big win for astro by tubes Organized by the German Design Council, the Iconic Awards 2019 rewards the very best in the world of interior design with a particular focus on the most innovative products.

The jury awarded Astro (designed by Luca Nichetto) by Tubes owing to the superior quality of its distinctive design. Astro is in fact a thermo ventilator, an air purifier and a furnishing element. It is a small electric heating object which effortlessly brings warmth where it is needed and then, surprisingly, purifies the air and eliminates odors. Heat and air, two primary needs for the human being, represent the essence of this object, which contains the technology required to independently perform two functions: heating and purifying.

The awards ceremony of the Iconic Awards 2019: Innovative Interior took place in Cologne on 13th January 2019.
